

Training recognition

TAFE NSW - South Western Sydney Institute has been honoured for its excellence.

TAFE NSW - South Western Sydney Institute has been recognised for excellence in trade skills training.

The Institute was awarded a three gold star rating in Light Auto and Horticulture at Padstow College and a two gold star rating in Engineering Trades at Chullora Campus.

The Star Rating Scheme identifies the best training providers to enable employers, councillors and potential students to evaluate training providers.

Institute for Trade Skills Excellence CEO, Brian Wexham said that the Star Rating Scheme gives students comfort that they are choosing the best course.

Institute Director TAFE NSW, South Western Sydney Institute, Barry Peddle, said he is very proud the Institute has been recognised as one of Australia's leading training providers.

"TAFE places a strong emphasis on practical skills so that students are job-ready when they finish their course," he said.
